

Taken Away

They walk along the heaven reflecting lake
Hand in hand, holding their love in the middle
Innocent – They don't know which direction they should go
Life will show the right way

Now she falls down on her knees
Praying to give her back her love

Her smile has shaded away from her fine face
Vitreous eyes shadows her frailty
She tries to be the same confident girl
But the fire in her soul doesn't shine so bright

Now she falls down on her knees
Praying to give her back her love
But it's too late to expect a wonder
He was taken away by a higher force, by a higher force
He was taken away, he was taken away by a higher force, by a higher force

With a look of entreaty she stands beside the soulless lake
Close your eyes and take my hand, a breeze is caressing her hair
Inflame the lake with the fire of your soul
Forever I'll be your guardian angel

She begins to smile